April 18, 2016

Kudos to Sabah Mary Francis for her presentation, "Screening of SHetA2 analogs on breast and prostate cancer cells," at Research Day 2016. Together with her collaborators and mentors Hongye Zou, Maggie Louie and Vani Rajagopalan, they discovered two second generation SHetA2 analogs with significant growth inhibition properties that are accompanied by reduced expression of key cell cycle regulators. Contact Dr. Vani Rajagopalan and Maggie Louie, Associate Professors of Pharmaceutical Sciences, for additional information.

Kudos to Paul Kuk (MS-COP) for his presentation, "Codrug designs and synthesis of SHetA2 analogs as novel anticancer agents," at Research Day 2016. Together with his research mentor Dr. Shengquan Liu, Associate Professor of Pharmaceutical Sciences, 13 new analogs were synthesized with improved yields using 4-nitrophenyl isothiocyanate reactions compared to previously used 4-nitrophenyl isocyanate reactions. For more information, contact Dr. Shengquan Liu.

April 18, 2016

Kudos to Julia Nguyen (MS-COP) for her presentation, "Transdermal drug delivery of tiagabine hydrochloride using solid microneedles," at Research Day 2016. Together with her research mentor Dr. Kevin Ita, Associate Professor of Pharmaceutical Sciences, she achieved improved delivery of this antiepileptic drug in a porcine skin model system using microneedle-mediated delivery compared to passive delivery. Contact Dr. Kevin Ita for further information.

April 18, 2016

Kudos to Johnny Liu (MS-COP) for his presentation, "Development of a multi-antigen tuberculosis vaccine using the tobacco mosaic virus," at Research Day 2016. Together with collaborators Aisha Shakeel, Gladys Heard, Hardeep Kaur and mentor Dr. Alison McCormick, the team discovered that some of their multi-antigen vaccines elicit stronger immunological responses in mice compared to single antigen vaccines for most of the TB antigens tested, and that the addition of certain adjuvants can further improve the immune response. For further details, contact Dr. Alison McCormick.

Kudos to Huong Nguyen whose journal club summary on pioglitazone therapy was featured in the Quatra/CSHP first quarter newsletter! "Conclusion: Pioglitazone therapy showed superiority over placebo in reducing the composite of stroke/MI in patients who experienced a recent stroke, had no history of diabetes mellitus, but demonstrated objective evidence of insulin resistance. However, pioglitazone recipients were more likely to experience excessive weight gain, edema, and bone fracture leading to surgery or hospitalization."

Congratulations to Kevin Carrasco, Steve Kim, and Ben Malcolm for winning the 2013 CPhA Quiz Bowl in competition with 7 other CA schools of pharmacy

With exams starting the following Monday, Touro's P1 and P2 students had to leave the meeting before the Quiz Bowl. Touro's P3 Ben Malcolm and P4s Kevin Carrasco and Steve Kim were the only PharmD students left. Even though they were outnumbered by the students representing the other schools, the Touro team won first place. Faculty members Dr. Keith Yoshizuka, Dr. Tony Chou, and Dr. Layla Yousify cheered the team on and sent this message and photo.

We are very proud of our 3 students for representing our school and exemplifying the high caliber of work, effort, and dedication that Touro University stands for.

Design submitted by Touro University California's Chapter of the International Society for Pharmacoeconomics and Outcomes Research (ISPOR) is selected as the official T-shirt design for this year's ISPOR International Meeting in New Orleans

The design, chosen from among several submissions, was inspired by the Jazz culture of New Orleans. The motif pays homage to the vintage Blue Note Jazz album covers of the 1940s and '50s.

Ideas came from contributors Dylan Mezzio, Eric Wager, Brendan Kelly, Tran Nguyen, Jessica Ly, and Bryan Nakamura. Much of the credit must go to Chris Johnson, Eric Wager's friend, who helped transform the ideas into the winning graphic for the back of the T-shirt.

In addition to the $100 award, the design gives credit to the Chapter, and will serve as a great way to make a name for Touro University California at the International Conference.

Touro University California's Phi Lambda Sigma (PLS) chapter, Gamma Omicron, has received national recognition and been awarded chapter of the year.

TOURO UNIVERSITY CALIFORNIA COLLEGE OF PHARMACY
STUDENT & ALUMNI ACCOMPLISHMENTS

It is a great honor to receive this award and will ultimately inspire our chapter to continue hard work in further leadership development among the profession of pharmacy. The award was presented during the American Pharmacists Association Annual meeting March 1-4, 2013, in Los Angeles.

Phi Lambda Sigma is a pharmacy honor society with a mission of fostering and recognizing leadership in the profession of pharmacy. The Gamma Omicron chapter was established at TUC in 2009.

Special thanks and recognition goes to the 2011-2012 PLS Executive Cabinet (Kevin Carrasco, Keri Hurley, Raymond Chow, and Kristin Wong), PLS Faculty Advisors (Dr. Terrill Tang and Dr. Linda Banares), 2012-2013 Executive Cabinet (David Lash, Sukhpal Cheema, Trinh Nguyen, and Ben Malcolm), all chapter members, and to Dean Katherine Knapp.
